CHEERING NEWS

Cheering news for the unshackled, unfettered, untrammelled delegation to the Republican national convention at Cleveland, headed by Earl Warren, district attorney of Alameda county and chairman of the State Central Committee, was brought to Richmond yesterday by Grant A. Burton of Concord, president of the Contra Costa Republican Assembly.

Newspapers of the county ranking the thought of swallowing a ticket dictated by Merriam and Hearst, and refusing to accept the dictates of that combination, are swinging over into the Warren column.

ELEMENTARY PROPOSITION
The fight in the Republican party over the delegation is a simple and elementary proposition: whether the Republicans of California will run their own affairs and not be in the position of being compelled to let the part of puppets when Merriam and Hearst pull the strings.

QUER MIXTURE
The fact that every Republican should bear in mind is that the Warren delegation is not against London to the contrary a majority of it favors his candidacy, but they do not believe in the rule of dictatorship either by any man within or any man without the State. Hearst is a New York registered Democrat and has no business meddling with Republican politics. What Merriam is politically is current to decipher. True, he did run as a Republican, but since his election he has fitted all over the political landscape in an endeavor to be "all things to all men." As far as I can discern he is neither a Republican nor a Democrat. The only reason he can describe for his being that is his qualities of leadership is either hardening of the arteries or softening of the ties.

Local Church To Hold Novel Building Meet

The Christian Church has a novel plan for its building fund banquet at 6:30 P. M., Wednesday, May 6, in the church dining room. The plan, according to Rev. J. Irving Rhoades, pastor, is to serve 200 members and friends of the church who will each pay $5 into the building fund. The Organized Women of the church are providing all the cost of the turkey dinner so that every cent received will be paid on the church indebtedness.

Each former pastor and wife have been asked to come and tell briefly of the days of their pastorate here. Rev. Aldis Webb of Sacramento will be toastmaster. He was the pastor when the parsonage and elementary Sunday school rooms were built. Rev. Milo J. Smith of Berkeley will speak on "The Value of the Church to a Community." The table decorations and musical numbers will be arranged this time also.

Mrs. C. E. Thomas, Mrs. Nella Dimmock and C. C. Kratzer are the ticket sales committee, and report 125 tickets sold to date. Mrs. Alfred Williams is in charge of the dining room, and Rev. Rhoades has arranged the program. Reservations can be secured by phoning any of these people.

"We hope that many people in the community will be glad to help us in this crisis, by attending the banquet and paying the $5 to the fund," said Rev. Rhoades. "It is the first time in ten years that our church has asked the people of this community for help on its building fund. We know that a church makes a valuable contribution to the community in character training for the youth, in better moral conditions, and in many other ways. We hope to go on to greater service in the community through our church. But just now we greatly need the help of loyal friends."

EUBANKS MURDER CLUES FOUND

HEINRICH'S HELP ASKED BY SHERIFF

The Eubanks murder case was revived yesterday when it was learned that what is believed to be a promising "lead" has been unearthed by Sheriff John A. Miller.

E. O. Heinrich of Berkeley, noted criminologist and "scientific detective" will confer with Sheriff Miller some time today on aspects of the case and will be given several clues to be studied.

SUSPECTED GUN

It is understood that Heinrich will be given a .45 calibre revolver taken from a suspect arrested in another case and will be asked to compare bullets fired from the revolver with those removed from the body of Forrest E. Eubanks, 41-year old local poolroom proprietor who was shot and killed early on the morning of December 21, 1934. The murder occurred in San Pablo. Officers attached to the sheriff's office last night declared that they had no knowledge of the case, but Heinrich admitted when questioned by a RECORD-HERALD reporter that he had been contacted by Sheriff Miller and an appointment had been made.

ARREST IS MADE

From information supplied by an authoritative source, it is learned that recently a suspect was arrested by the sheriff's office in connection with another case. The suspect is said to have had in his possession a .45 calibre revolver, such as the one used by the slayer of Eubanks.

Eubanks was shot at his home at 322 Pine street, San Pablo, shortly after 2:30 A. M. on December 21. He died at a local hospital at 7:30 A. M. from wounds inflicted by a heavy .45 calibre bullet through his body.

MURDER REVIEWED

Eubanks gave a statement just before he died to T. N. Calfee, local attorney who was at that time deputy district attorney for this area. He said he had closed his place of business shortly after one o'clock in the morning. In the store were two friends. As they left, he said, he saw a man standing near the bank at Twelfth street. At that time he gave no thought to the matter.

Eubanks and his two friends went to a restaurant where they had a bite to eat and Eubanks then

New Tax Bill Condemned By U. S. Chamber

WASHINGTON, April 29.—UP—Business interests, as represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in convention here, opened a vigorous new attack today on the New Deal's fiscal taxation and spending policies.

Coinciding almost exactly with passage by the House of the Administration's new $803,000,000 revenue bill, speakers at the Chamber's 24th annual meeting declared this tax bill is "unworkable, impracticable and contrary to all accepted canons of taxation."

Hunger Horde Delivers Blast

(TRENTON, N. J. (Thursday) April 30.—UP—The New Jersey "hunger marchers" delivered a final verbal blast at the Administration early today and ended their nine-day siege of the State house after the legislature passed a bill returning the relief problem to municipalities.

The bill, however, did not say where State relief funds were to come from for allocation by a commission headed by the governor and composed entirely of Republicans.

The unemployed "squatters" who have occupied the Assembly chamber since April 21 made their final demonstration in the chamber after the legislature adjourned shortly after one A. M., despite the fact that the Assembly early last night voted to instruct the capitol custodian to keep them out of the chamber.

Peter Feenan will preside over the business meeting and he has asked all members to be in attendance.

David Burton and committee will serve a tasty supper at conclusion of the meeting.

Third Jury Panel Drawn For E. C. Dog Track Trial

There was only a half-day session of the dog track case yesterday in the court of Judge Thomas D. Johnston in Martinez. The examination of veniremen occupied all the morning session, during which time a total of six peremptory challenges were exercised, three by the prosecution and three by the defense, resulting in the dismissal of Sylvester Hiatt, Janet H. Berry, Mrs. Esther F. Frost, Mrs. Ella T. Roberts, Mrs. Stella Stewart and Eno Lucido.

When court convened in the afternoon the attorneys addressed the court saying that the trial could be greatly expedited by entering into stipulations as to certain facts, thus doing away with the necessity of calling witnesses to prove these facts. It was agreed that the attorneys should be given the afternoon to go into a legal huddle and emerge therefrom, ready to present their agreement to the court this morning at 10 o'clock.

Statement Of Case And Law, Clear Succinct

Succinct and clear is the statement which Judge Thomas D. Johnston makes to the veniremen when they appear for service as prospective jurors in the dog track case, now in progress in his department of the superior court in Martinez. Even those unversed in the law cannot help, after listening to his statement and exposition of the principles of law governing the case, but understand what is required of them, in event they are chosen to serve.

In addressing the veniremen he made the following remarks: "Ladies and Gentlemen: The case that we are about to try here is the case that has been referred to generally as the 'dog track case.' The El Cerrito Kennel Club has been apparently racing dogs down in the western end of this county and the District Attorney has filed an information against certain employees, or people connected with the track, accusing them of conducting a betting pool and other gambling, claiming that it is prohibited under Section 337 A Penal Code. The defendants have pled not guilty to the charge and claim whatever acts they have performed are not in violation of the law.

"The question for the jury here is to decide the questions of fact that may be presented before the Court and apply the law as given you by the Judge to those facts, and render a verdict, if you are selected.

"I make that statement to you, not intending it to be considered as any evidence whatsoever, but simply in order that you can intelligently answer the questions that will be put to you touching your qualifications to serve as jurors in the case.

"As I stated, this case here is one in which these seven gentlemen who sit inside the rail here are defendants. Their names and the order in which they sit from the jury box, toward the south, are: George Chapman, J. R. Hayes, R. Williams, F. A. Wright, J. J. Marsala, R. F. Bockius and S. S. Hudson. They are the ones who are charged by the District Attorney with the offense. Now the information has three counts in it: One

Crime Cleanup Is Reported By Sheriff Miller

MARTINEZ, April 29.—With sixteen months or exactly one-third of his term completed, Sheriff John A. Miller announces that his office has cleaned up every major criminal case in the county with one exception. In accomplishing this record, 261 criminal arrests have been made by deputies of the sheriff's office, not including large numbers of arrests for minor cases.

A few very minor cases such as bad check cases remain uncompleted, but all gangs and organized crime have been stamped out. In the cleanup, several groups of chicken thieves, cattle rustlers and grain thieves have been captured and convicted.

Some of the latest catches include the famous Winans case, involving approximately 200 poultry thieves, and for which seven arrests were made, all of whom secured stiff sentences, including Roy Winans and Clyde Howell, who netted long San Quentin terms.

Walnut, almond and packing plant thefts in eastern Contra Costa county have recently been solved and the Evans gang are now serving San Quentin sentences, while grain and cattle theft rings had been successfully broken up earlier in the year.

The sheriff's office is now busily engaged trying to crack the last unsolved major case which occurred during the present crime in an incorporated territory.

The county jail, built in 1902 to accommodate 26 prisoners has had a daily average population of 54 during the present regime, and the high peak load of 79, reached in January 1936, has dwindled to 59, which is still over double the accommodation facilities of the county bastille.

A. Baratto Is Taken By Death

Antonio Baratto, 44, of North Richmond, passed away at a Martinez hospital yesterday morning after a lingering illness.

A native of Venice, Italy, deceased came here 28 years ago. He had been employed by the Santa Fe Foundry.

The deceased was a member of Point Richmond Aerie of Eagles. Left to mourn are his widow, Mrs. Amelia Baratto; a daughter, Olive, living at home; two sisters, Angelina and Antonietta of Italy; a brother Angelo Baratto of Fresno and a brother in Italy.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Wilson and Kruttschapel.

Hoover Not Involved In Delegation

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—UP—Spokesman for former President Herbert Hoover today moved to extricate his name from the present state presidential primary campaign, according to an article in the San Francisco News.

The News quoted "a member of Mr. Hoover's advisory staff" to deny that the titular head of the Republican party either controlled or inspired selection of an "unpledged, uncommitted" GOP delegation placed before the voters.

These 161 persons, veniremen will all draw money from the county for having made an appearance in court, plus mileage. Only 12 of them will serve, it is true, but being summoned in itself entitles them to pay, and the county must disburse the money.

WARREN IS LEADER

The unpledged delegation, headed by State Republican Central Committee Chairman Earl Warren, is competing with a delegation pledged to Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas in the May 5 election.

Opposing campaign forces have labelled the unpledged delegation the "Hoover-Regan-Warren" ticket, referring to supposed choices of the former president, Republican Mark Regan, and Warren, the Landon ticket. In turn, has been termed the "Heard-Morland" choice, since it has the backing of the Hearst newspapers and Gov. Frank F. Heard.

LAUDS IDEA

Mr. Hoover "believes the theory behind the unpledged delegation idea is a good one, and will vote to send Earl Warren, Alameda county district attorney, and his associates to the Cleveland convention," is an article in the News said.

Republican leaders, the spokesman was quoted as saying, have advanced unpledged delegations on a national basis. "Their belief is that unpledged delegates will be less subject to 'boss control' because they cannot be traded off by the favorite son candidates or the

Man To Be Frozen In Big Cake Of Ice

Believe it or not, but Freeze, a live human being, will be frozen inside of a 1,000 pound cake of ice in Richmond next Saturday. Arrangements for the freezing can be made with the local ice company.

Present plans are for Freeze to be shown in the middle of a huge cake of ice in front of the RECORD-HERALD office Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:00 o'clock.

Definite announcement concerning the amazing exhibition will be given in tomorrow's edition of this paper.

If the exhibition is made, Freeze will afterwards be hauled by truck to Foley and Burke's circus, where the man will be chopped out of the ice.

Everyone will be afforded an opportunity of seeing that Freeze is a real live man, and that he is actually sealed up tight within the cake of ice.

APPEAL FOR CASH STIRS QUIZ PLANS

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—UP—Quarreling members of Dr. Francis E. Townsend's troupe of professional old age pension getters tonight appeared to have washed enough of each other's linen in public to lift their squabble out of the class of a family row and bring hints of a Department of Justice inquiry.

Representative Joseph A. Gurnea, Democrat, New York, subcommittee of a Congressional investigating committee inquiring into financial affairs of the high pension Townsend lobby, said today that evidence obtained at a hearing here "will be taken up in Washington."

W. Estment Is Named Junior C. C. Secretary

Wilfred (Bill) Estment was named secretary of the Richmond Junior Chamber of Commerce last evening at a meeting held at the Richmond city hall.

Estment will fill the vacancy created by the resignation of W. B. C. Brown, who sailed last week for Persia.

The charter of the organization was ordered closed last evening. There are 39 charter members. A membership drive will be started in the immediate future.

Installation of officers will be held on May 6 at the Hotel Carquinez. There will be a $3.00 dinner. A prominent speaker will address the group.

A board of directors meeting will be held in the near future.

Track Coach Is Kwanis Speaker

Walter Christie, former U. S. track coach, was the speaker yesterday when the Richmond Kiwanis club held its meeting. He discussed athletics.

Ralph Bergen was chairman of the day and C. E. Moore, vice-president presided.

Champe and Dorothy Bergen and Paul Phillips provided musical entertainment.

Carlson Talks At Antioch Mass Meet

Formation of a Contra Costa county water district in connection with the Central Valley Water Project was advocated by Attorney Thomas M. Carlson at Richmond in an address before a mass meeting of Antioch citizens last night at Antioch.

Carlson was introduced by Martin Flaherty.

Virginia City Girl Is Winner Of Exciting Race

Runnings strictly to form, Virginia City Girl, W. F. McHugh's 11 to 5 choice, pleased the multitude watching last night's races by clinching the $102 double option at El Cerrito Kennel Club track.

Virginia City Girl, out of the No. 9 hole, cleared off the dope and was the red-hot favorite. The prize female ran superbly to get a nose decision for a repeat.

Tong Kashmir, 11 to 1, and Lucky Party, 10 to 1, almost caused an upset, but couldn't get there fast enough so the favorite won as expected in a blanket finish.

Rumbling Traffic, by Traffic Lad, the Mission Blues, surprised the talent in the sixth race by beating out Macinlo and Armistice Day to return $32.40 preferred, $24.00 secondary and $10. third options. This one got up better than expected.

Which the game was the case of Candy Girl, who heretofore had looked mediocre, but won the first race last night at $44.20 preferred, Candy Girl and Rumbling Traffic are both in the Colton kennels, completing quite an evening for this group.

Angels Wallop Oakland Oaks In Second Game

By UNITED PRESS

While Los Angeles reversed its dismal showing of recent weeks to down the league leading Oaks 4 to 3 for the Angels' second win in as many starts the San Francisco Seals bowed to the once despised Sacramento Solons 5 to 1.

It was Sacramento that licked the Angels last week and Oakland had been scheduled to strengthen its standing at the expense of the Angels, but the Los Angeles team put on a three run rally in the eighth to squelch Billy Meyers' boys.

Maywood Belcher of the St. Louis Cardinal "chain gang" held the Seals hitless for four innings while Lefty O'Doul's right-hander, Lou McEvoy was blasted off the mound in the second inning.

San Diego's Padres evened the series with Portland by winning 10 to 3 on a barrage of 16 hits. In the night game Seattle lost to the Missions 5 to 2.

The line scores:

Pioneers Will Aid Aged Slayer

SAN JOSE, April 29.—UP—California pioneers were reported tonight to the rallying to the defense of Peter Voias, aged prospector, who shot and killed Dr. Jasper Gattacaro, San Jose dentist, when the latter failed to pay him after taking a picture of his picturesque two-wheeled burro-drawn cart.

Pickers Strike Riots Are Feared

CLARKSBURG, April 29.—UP—Momentary outbreak among 200 striking pea pickers was threatened tonight after a brewing riot was averted by decision of authorities to abandon attempts to arrest an asserted agitator.

Rain today thwarted a showdown between the strikers and employers on the Pacific Produce Company of San Jose, on whose property the walkout is centered.

The pickers have demanded 25 instead of 20 cents per hamper. They insisted they will not accept a tentative offer of 22 cents.

RED SOX WIN OVER CHICAGO TO LEAD LOOP

NEW YORK, April 29.—UP—The Boston Red Sox took the leadership of the American League today by hammering out an 8 to 7 victory over the Chicago White Sox as the Cleveland Indians lost to the New York Yankees.

A half dozen changes in standing followed today's games with the Yankees moving from fourth to second, the Indians dropping from first to third, the Detroit Tigers falling from third to fourth, Philadelphia climbing from seventh to sixth and the Chicago White Sox dropping from sixth to seventh.

Rick Ferrell batted in the winning run for the Red Sox over Chicago.

The Tigers lost a chance to go into a tie with the Red Sox for first place when the Washington Senators clubbed Tommy Bridges for a 7 to 3 victory.

The Yankees moved to within a half game of the league leadership by defeating Cleveland, 6 to 1. Lefty Gomez, who pitched his third victory of the season, let the Indians down with three hits, striking out five.

Philadelphia's Athletics rose to sixth place by winning their second straight over the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 4.

The Chicago Cubs climbed all the way from fifth in the National League to a second place tie with the idle Cincinnati Reds as Bill Lee bested Van Mungo in a pitchers' duel and the Cubs beat the Brooklyn Dodgers 1 to 0.

The Pittsburgh Pirates won an 11-inning battle from the Philadelphia Phillies 10 to 9 when the Phil's pitcher, Bill Walter, hit a batter while the bases were loaded, forcing in the winning run.

Radio Station On Gate Span Is Turned Down

SAN FRANCISCO, April 29.—UP—The Golden Gate bridge directors vetoed a proposal of a commercial organization today which would have permitted installation of broadcasting equipment on the span.

Everything was all right until they found an obscure clause in the contract which would have allowed commercial advertising and paid programs to be released thru radio loudspeakers on the bridge. Previously, it was understood that the equipment would be used to bid outgoing vessels "goodbye" as they sailed out through the Golden Gate, or warn bridge motorists to drive carefully and stay on the right side of the lanes.

But the proposal was rejected when the commercial aspect cropped up, because the bridge district has a rule against permitting advertising of any sort on the structure.

The Hawaiian Clipper is continuing test flights from the airport here.

Police Trapped By Bandit Gang

LOS ANGELES, April 29.—UP—Fifteen local patrol cars, loaded with armed police, ranged through the city tonight hunting three machine gun bandits who trapped two raiding policemen, bound them and fled.

The policemen, Frank von Mohr and J. L. Berthom, managed to free themselves after a half hour and called police headquarters. They were trapped when they entered a room to investigate a report that someone was breaking into the house.

OLD FAVORITES OF THE CIRCUS

In spite of the fact that the night performances of the big circuses are the exact counterparts of that which is exhibited at the afternoon shows there are many people who hold views to the contrary.

"See, they are taking part of it away," someone will exclaim as he notes a string of red wagons winding their way toward the railroad yards just about the time darkness is falling.

"Oh, yes," answers another, "one never sees the whole show at the night performance."

Yet the conclusion is entirely erroneous. It is true that the management "takes part of it away" from the show grounds in the late afternoon, but that which is removed is in no way connected with that which the public pays to see. It is merely a portion of the paraphernalia which has been used, such as to house the hundreds of heavy draught horses, the vast equipment of the dining tent or kitchen, and other "housekeeping" departments of the dining tents or kitchens, and other "housekeeping" departments.

The Al G. Barnes Circus when it visits Oakland 3 days, May 1-3, at 45th and San Pablo will feed hundreds in dining tents. The food consumed will be cooked on four mammoth ranges. The last of the drove one of the men to the Standard Oil long wharf and the other man to his home in Albany. He then drove to his San Pablo home, arriving there shortly after two o'clock. Eubanks told Calfee that he had closed the east door of the garage and was about to close the west door when he heard a voice commanding him to "stick 'em up."

SAW GUNMAN

He turned and saw a man armed with a gun. The man was masked with a handkerchief. He was about five feet three or four inches tall and weighed between 135 and 145 pounds.

As Eubanks turned he held a padlock in his hand. The moon gleamed on the metal and the bandit apparently thought he had a gun. The gunman opened fire. Two shots went wild out the third struck him in the body, piercing the liver. The slug was later found lodged between the man's outer and under shirts.

FOOTPRINTS FOUND

As Eubanks felt he screamed and his wife, Mrs. Marion Eubanks, rushed to the scene.

An investigation by officers revealed that the killer had fled southward and left his footprints in a plughole just adjacent to the home. Prints of these footprints were taken.

Neighbors said they heard a dog barking. Joseph Ricardo told police he saw a man crawling along the fence but he could not recognize him. Mrs. J. A. Bryan told police she heard a door slam and a machine drive away shortly before the shooting took place.

A search of the area failed to reveal cartridges ejected from an automatic pistol so police believe the shooting was done with a .45 caliber six-shooter.

More than 120 persons were questioned by Calfee and the sheriff's office but no clue was uncovered. Officers believed that the man who killed Eubanks knew him personally and that he carried home cash each night from his poolroom which was located on Macdonald avenue.

BOILS

An acute skin inflammation such as a boil is exceedingly rare among those who work in the home. It is a familiar commonplace among the general population.

The causes of boils must be considered to arise both from the outside and the inside. The outside cause is the invasion of the skin by staphylococci, which invasion usually occurs by way of a hair follicle, through a sweat gland, or through an open scratch or cut. However, the body seems to be able to resist such an infection of the skin providing its defensive powers are normal. It is only when the system is "run down" and the resistive powers are thereby lowered that the staphylococci gain a foothold. The most important causes of boils are therefore the causes arising on the inside of the body.

The development of boils will be encouraged by wrong habits of eating and particularly by the use of rich, heavy food, which creates the acidosis soil in which the staphylococcus can grow. Erection is also an important predisposing cause. Constant irritation of the skin through continued rubbing sometimes plays a part in favoring the occurrence of a boil. For example, when the neck is rubbed with a stiff shirt collar, the neck may become the site of a boil. Changes in blood chemistry may induce a crop of boils, for example, the changes in blood chemistry seen in diabetes often make the patient susceptible to boils.

A boil is an acute inflammation of the skin occurring within a limited area. It usually first appears as a small simple which, within a few hours, is surrounded by a dark red swelling. At this stage, the painful sensation reaches its height, later becoming a marked tenderness rather than actual pain. The local swelling increases and within several days will come to a head, or arrive at a point, being in the shape of a cone. At this stage, the pressure underneath will cause a discharge of pus, together with the core.

One of the most important rules to observe when a boil is present is to leave it alone. Picking at it, squeezing it or opening it before it has come to a point will only make matters worse. Most boils should not be opened before 36 or 48 hours have passed. Mistaken meddling in the early stage will do more harm than good. If it is desired to hurry matters along, the application of a warm, moist, continuous flaxseed poultice may make the boil come to a head a little more quickly than it would otherwise.

Once a boil has formed, keeping the skin clean should become a first consideration. Strict cleanliness of the skin surface will help to prevent the spread of the infection. Certainly the patient should take great care to keep the surrounding surface as clean as possible.

Probably most people open boils at home; however, it is a good plan to have a large boil lanced by a doctor. The boil is lanced for the purpose of allowing the escape of dead tissue, and to hasten removing the core. Lancing also relieves the tension.

When you are watching the development of a boil, you are watching a struggle between the invading organisms and the defensive powers of the body. The body will fight to erect a barrier which stops the spread of the infection, and when the defensive powers are good, the resulting inflammation will be held down to the size of a pimple; when the resistive powers are low, then a large boil will result.

I will be glad to send you an article on Boils. To secure it, write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose ten cents and one large, self-addressed envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Normal Pulse Rate)

Question: Frank F. writes: "How fast should the pulse beat normally? What is the normal rate of breathing, also the normal blood pressure?"

Answer: The normal pulse rate is 72 per minute. The normal breathing is 18 per minute and the normal systolic blood pressure is 130. There may fluctuate considerably with exercise or emotional changes without such fluctuation indicating the presence of any disorder.

(Palpitation)

Question: Dorothy I. inquires: "Is there any relationship between palpitation of the heart and gas in the stomach? My meals seem to make so much gas that my heart beats too fast."

Answer: One of the common causes of palpitation is the presence of gas in the stomach, which causes a pressure up against the heart. Flatulence of this type is generally due to using wrong food combinations or to using foods which in themselves cause gas, such as onion, garlic, cooked cabbage, and so on. Try making your meals more simple and see if this does not remove the tendency to palpitation so that the heart beat will remain normal.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

All Mouth Infections Call for Rigid Hygiene Habits

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M. D.

A YOUNG MAN in my own family has just had a serious case of mouth infection, involving most of the mucous membranes. He was seemingly in perfect health up to the moment the infection appeared. Where it came from is hard to say. He is in an extensive wholesale business, where everything seems to be in good order. Light, sunshine, ventilation, care-taking would appear to be provided after the most approved modern methods. Yet somewhere in the day's routine, he must have put something in his mouth that carried the germs of disease.

It isn't the fact of the infection or of the suffering that goes with it which is the important consideration of the day. It is the fact that the germs of disease are everywhere, and that we must exercise constant care in our daily contacts with people and things. Naturally, the mouth with its many cavities, its moistness and warmth, its constant intake of breath is an ideal entrance for bacteria.

Sources of Danger

Not only may the germs come in at the front door, but where any of the eliminating organs fail to do all their work, the lungs try to help out. Then some of the waste toxins may be brought out with the exhaled breath. In certain cases, it has been known that bacteria have traveled from the blood stream into the saliva.

When the body in general is functioning properly, the mouth is smooth, well moistened with saliva, and sweet-smelling. Any unpleasantness of feeling or taste says that something is wrong.

The acute attack of trouble I mentioned in the beginning could be traced to several sources. There are drinking fountains in the building which are designed to be absolutely clean. But some people put their mouths too close to the orifice of the fountain. Besides, they lean over with their hands resting on the edges of the basin.

The most likely place to find trouble is at the restaurant where the noon lunch is eaten. I repeat again that much of the possible danger here rises from the fact that during a very brief period at noon, the rush of business makes strict cleanliness a human impossibility. Our local restaurants, under rather rigid inspection, but when the long line of people is hungry and pressed for time, starts in and everybody is yelling for "Service" and saying "Step on it!" haste rather than hygiene is observed. In this case as in many others, prevention is the best form of cure.

Cleanse the Mouth

The fact is, the mouth and throat should be cleaned as often and as carefully as the face itself. Anyone who must mingle with crowds or spend much time in the atmosphere of trade or industry goes home with about a million different chances for trouble in the form of dust, metal particles, soot, chemicals, and human bacteria all ready to get to work.

It is quite reasonable that the mouth and throat and the nose as well should be thoroughly cleaned out. Care must also be observed in looking after any lesions in the membranes of the mouth where infection might enter. A lesion of misshapen tooth can do much damage; the tooth must be mended or extracted. The pipe manufacturers ought to pay the doctors a bonus for just what a pipe gets a thoroughly reasoned, we begin to find fault with a rough place here or a ridge there and tell the owner he must buy a new one to protect his mouth.

If you are addicted to the use of toothpicks, don't chew them to pieces afterwards. I have found splinters in the membranes, also fishbones or shivers of chicken bones, all good trouble-makers.

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "My girl friend's fiancé is in the hospital as the result of an automobile accident. Would it be in order for me to send him something? And if so, what shall I get him?—Lettie."

ANSWER: You may send him flowers. No matter how masculine his tastes, he will be flattered by the thought. Cigarettes, if he is a smoker and allowed to smoke, are a most appropriate gift. The latter even more so than flowers.

QUESTION: "Please let me know whether service plates remain throughout the dinner?—T. R."

ANSWER: The service plate is removed before placing the main course. Up to this point food on china of its own, is placed on the service plate.

The War on Germs Is Hope of Humanity

By TALBOT LAKE

NEARLY 300 microbes cause disease in human beings. William B. Eddy, president of the National Association of Insecticide and Disinfectant Manufacturers, told the directors of the association, recently in New York. As many more cause disease in cattle, poultry and other animals. Mr. Eddy knows a lot about bugs, and how to combat them. Housewives will be interested in some of his opinions.

"Of the minute organisms causing disease, bacteria hold the leading role. These microbes are, in general, considered as belonging to the vegetable family. So far scientists have discovered about 120 distinct kinds of disease bacteria," says Mr. Eddy.

"More than 50 kinds of protozoa (one-celled microscopic animals) are the cause of various human ills, as malaria, dysentery, etc. Spirochetes, which differ structurally and in living habits from bacteria, bring about a dozen or more human ailments, chief of which is a sore disease, Organisms which live in cells of body tissue, called chlamydozoa, are the cause of 25 more diseases, typical of which is smallpox. Some bacteria are as special types of protozoa, as are the bacteria which cause typhoid fever, cholera, and other diseases. They are called filterable viruses because, unlike bacteria, they pass through the pores of unglazed porcelain filters."

"Besides the microbes, more than 150 minute organisms of worm and insect types prey on human beings, causing trichinosis, scabies, etc. Finally, there are about 75 fungi that cause such ills as athlete's foot.

"Fortunately, science is showing the way towards better control of microbes and the death rate from germ diseases in the United States is rapidly diminishing. Science has clearly demonstrated that infection is prevented by resistance of the individual and reduction of the number of germs to which a person is exposed.

"A person in good health will often be able to fight off common disease germs, as those which cause colds. Some, however, are so virulent that the average person cannot fight them off. They had best be dodged. It is believed, for example, that a single anthrax germ may cause disease. Personal hygiene and general sanitation reduce the number of germs to which people are exposed and thus lessen the chance of infection.

"The only way that modern science has been able to lengthen the average life of human beings is through the control of germs."

JACKET AND SKIRT

Copyright, 1936, by Patrold. Medium weight woolen makes the tailored jacket and plain skirt. The first has a gray overcheck on a cream ground. The skirt picks up the gray of the overcheck, is very slim and measures about 13 1/2 inches of the ground.

Skin Care For Elders Described

By JACQUELINE HUNT

A SKIN petal clear and fresh should be the first beauty goal you set for yourself if you wish to stay young with your daughters. Invest in some good creams, go to work on your face and see what fun it is to see your skin come alive.

Get a fluffy cold cream or "all-purpose" cream and use it the first thing at night to remove the surface dirt and make-up from your skin. Wipe away as much of the soiled cream as you can with tissues and then float every molecule of cream from the pores with a soap and water washing. A very bland soap, remember, and the softest water you can get!

Lubrication is the next step. You will probably need some kind of cream, even if your skin seems normal or a little oily. You will need to use much. Just apply a light film and pat it in so as much of the oil as possible will be absorbed by your skin.

Pat briskly with up and out pats or work in little upward circles over the muscles of your face.

Leave the cream on your face while you massage your hands and inspect your fingernails. Then remove the excess cream by blotting gently with clean tissues.

Rinse your face with cold water or pat lightly with a pad of cotton soaked with skin tonic. A little oil will remain on your face, but there will not be enough to make you look greasy or feel the least bit uncomfortable.

This treatment will keep the average skin soft and nice until you are well past middle age! But you must do it every night!

If your skin is abnormally dry and tends to wrinkle, use a heavier cream and spend a little more time at massage. Allow as much of the cream as possible to be absorbed by your skin, but be sure to remove the excess before you go to bed.

You will need something to tone your skin and make it finer in texture. If your skin tends to be dry, avoid harsh astringents. Most of the better corrective preparations of this kind come in different strengths so you can get one suited to your skin. Some of you will find that ordinary cold water or a lotion of witch hazel and rose water chilled with an ice cube makes a satisfactory astringent and tonic.

Practice this facial routine and hand massage until you can complete it in less than the twenty minutes allowed for your evening beauty care. If you are a fairly busy medical person, you should also have time to dip into a tub of tepid water or shower and of course such routine things as brushing your hair and teeth.

Once a week you should allow yourself an extra hour or so to schedule for a leisurely, scented bath, a manicure, scalp massage and shampoo when you need to use a stimulating cream or mask every week or two to refine your skin and keep the circulation pepped up.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "The skin on my body is so dry that it seems scaly and sometimes there seems to be tiny cracks in the skin. Is there something lacking in my diet, or what could cause the trouble? Is there anything I can use to correct it?—Mrs. T. S."

ANSWER: Since the extreme dryness affects your entire body, I suspect that some physical condition is to blame. However, you should consult your family doctor and let him prescribe treatment. You might try massaging your entire body with warm olive oil before your evening bath each night.

This couldn't possibly do you any harm and it might improve the condition. Apply a little more of the oil or a body lotion after each bath.

QUESTION: "Am I too young to use a nourishing cream? I am eighteen and have a very dry skin. It is nearly always rough and when I am outdoors in the wind or sun for as much as an hour it chaps badly. My mother insists that nourishing creams and tissue creams are for older women.—Rita."

ANSWER: You do need something, don't you? I would suggest a good all-purpose cream that is a little fluffier than a true "nourishing cream." Wash your face in tepid water and pure castile soap and rinse only with tepid water. Apply the cream liberally and go over your face and neck, patting gently.

Leave the cream on for fifteen minutes, then remove the excess before retiring. When you expect to be out of doors, smooth a little cream on your face, then apply your make-up.

A Charming Negligee

Comfort and becomingness are keynotes of this pale blue satin negligee in the wardrobe of Loretta Young, screen star. The shirred yoke gives roominess around the shoulders. Square braided buttons, a small upstanding collar and full sleeves are other features of the robe.

Dishes for Today

Extra Touches Make Your Meals More Interesting

By JUDITH WILSON

IT'S the extra touches that you add to your dishes that make the meal interesting. You hear so much about keeping your meals balanced these days that you can hardly help having sufficient vitamins and minerals if you use the fresh fruits and vegetables available. But are your meals interesting?

Learn to prepare simple things in as many ways possible. No matter how delicious a certain dish may be, it will lose its thrill if you serve it over and over again. Often a dish may be changed by such a simple trick as the right garnish or the entire meal made more enjoyable by shifting the courses around so you start off with the salad.

Here are a few recipes for inexpensive dishes that have the extra touch about them:

SUPPERS

Fresh Fruit Salad with Fruit French Dressing
Toasted Cheese Fingers
Italian Rum Cake
Coffee

Waffles with Maple Syrup
Scrambled Eggs with Diced Ham
Chilled Radishes and Celery
Sugared Fresh Pineapple
Coffee

Mexican Chicken

You will need a 3-pound roasting chicken. Cut up and brown in a heavy skillet with 3 tablespoons fat. Blend 1 teaspoon flour into the fat. In a saucepan put 1 thinly sliced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, 1/2 cup strained tomatoes. Pour the sauce over the chicken and cover tightly. Simmer until the chicken is very tender. Serve with rice, prepared as follows:

Saute 1 cup washed rice, 1 clove minced garlic and 1 tablespoon onion in 2 tablespoons butter until light brown. Add 1 cup strained tomatoes, 2 cups meat stock, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon chili powder. Cook slowly until the rice is very tender and the liquid evaporated.

Serve with a garnish of cooked vegetables and sliced hard cooked eggs.

Glazed Ham Loaves

Mix together thoroughly 1/2 pound ground ham, 1/2 pound chopped fresh pork, 1/3 cup cracker crumbs, 1 egg beaten, chopped fine, 1 egg beaten slightly and blended with 3/4 cup milk. Season to taste with a little salt.

Speaking of Style

Birds Back In Style for Millinery

By IRENE VAIL

NEW YORK—What women are wearing is the best criterion of what is, or is not, in fashion. With this thought in mind, style sleuths were stationed at centers around town so that you and you would be reliably informed on what is being worn in New York. For as New York goes so goes the country.

It may still be news to you that birds, even flocks of birds, more often pairs, are being worn again. In fact, so swift has been their flight into fashion that the position of flowers as the No. 1 trimming of the year is threatened. A hat for a bride, if ever there was one, is a tiny turban of white felt almost covered with small white birds on the wing, while another of lacquered black straw had a pair of golden wedding yellow wings matched to a scarf and gloves. What could be more chic if the suit was black.

The following types were repeated often enough to establish them in the success brackets. The redingote in women's sizes, because it is a classic for the matron. Despite the style influence of the tailored suit this season, the well-made redingote with woolen coat and good print dress is easier than the suit for the larger woman to wear. The veiled idea in dresses, because it can be dramatized very interestingly along with veiled hats.

The petticoat dress because it is just "arriving" on the fashion horizon. Dresses with petticoats visible only when the figure is in action, or through a slash in the skirt, are more practical than those with petticoat showing below the dress hemline, many women objecting to the latter as "untidy" looking.

The tunic for daytime and formal wear, because well-dressed women have expressed favor for this type. The baby swaggar jacket dress whose jacket can be worn over the tunic, is a big success in a season when the costume formula is high style. The smartest women will be seen in individually assembled costumes of this sort because it is a style note that will carry through in the summer wardrobe. The smart woman will select costumes adaptable to this "interchangeable" or convertible idea.

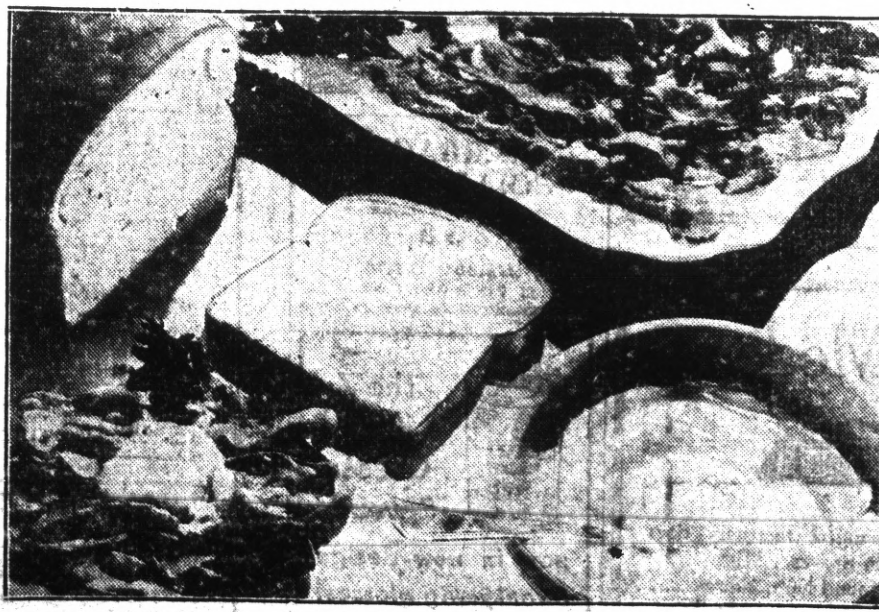

Choosing a New Mate

A wise man once said that married people were seldom wise enough to select new mates. He was, of course, arguing against divorce. His statement may not have been true in every respect but it is true that in many cases though not altogether happy, a pair who have lived together and learned each other's habits should stay married. Or at the most separate so they can return to each other again.

In Buying Blankets

When purchasing cotton and wool blankets be sure to find out the percentage of wool used in their manufacture. Some cotton and wool blankets are made with only from three to seven per cent wool, and the salesman is not misrepresenting his wares when he refers to them as "cotton and wool."

A MEXICAN SALAD DRESSING

Those who have tried this salad dressing recommend it for a delightful change from the dressings in common use. It is made from the following recipe:

1/2 cup softened condensed milk, 2/3 cup vinegar, 1 egg yolk, 2/3 cup sweetened condensed milk and vinegar. Stir until mixture thickens. If thicker consistency is desired chill before serving. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

MODERN WOMEN

Housecleaning Time Reveals Two Kinds of Wifely Attitude

By MARIAN MAYS MARTIN

SPRING housecleaning has driven more husbands away from home than meticulous housekeepers care to admit. At this season, if not before, such women are seized with a mad desire to dig and delve and become so imbued with their own idea of what's right and proper that they never pause to consider the effects of the upheaval on other members of their household.

You and Your Child

Manners at Home Are Test of Training

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

DURING an afternoon visit to his aunt, Ted was treated to a portion of cake and ice cream that was equal in size to the portions served the adult guests. His aunt had an appreciation of a nine-year-old's capacity for such refreshment.

About a half hour later while the ladies were getting into their hats and wraps in another part of the house, Ted wandered into the livingroom.

First he lifted the cover of a candy box. He was not unobserved, and he knew it. For together in the room with him was Mr. and Mrs. Albright, the cousin and another man. Finding nothing in the box, Ted covered it nonchalantly.

Then without a word he wandered into the diningroom. At the buffet, he stopped. He was attracted by a huge bunch of grapes in the fruit bowl. With his finger he nipped off a small cluster and returned to the livingroom eating. Soon he was back at the buffet again. This time he tried to break off a larger cluster. He wiggled the stem. As it would not break off, he picked up a knife and cut it off.

When uncle and auntie were alone, uncle described what had happened. "I guess he does the same thing at home," auntie commented. Uncle said, "That might be all right in his own home, but a child should know to ask for things in company."

You cannot teach a child one set of manners for home use and one for company. No young child should be allowed free access to the cookie jar, fruit bowl, candy or nut dish in his own home.

When tempted, he should have to ask mother. "May I?" Any child practicing such manners at home would be sure to have them for use in company. It did not occur to Teddy to ask his uncle for grapes. He acted from force of habit.

Seen in New York

The Duchess Ducares looks very smart in Schiaparelli's black woolen skirt with plaid jacket and pale blue blouse that repeats the blue of the jacket plaid.

Baronne Eugene de Rothschild wears Schiaparelli's long cape lined with plaid and worn over a blue suit.

A big Molyneux success consists of a black woolen dress with a satin scarf and girdle, and white satin at the round neckline, accompanied by a short bolero.

A Lick and A Promise

On the other hand, there is the woman who gives her house a lick and a promise and never fulfills her promise.

Housewives that have been closed all winter may emerge from under their covers looking orderly and amazingly free of dust, but they do need going over just the same. A family that prides itself on being Mr. and Mrs. Albright live not so far from me. When the summer house is opened each spring they appear to resume normal living without any disturbance. "But don't you take things off your kitchen and pantry shelves and wash all your dishes?" she was asked. "No, I don't. Things just don't seem to get dusty. I just wash each dish as I use it," she blandly replied.

In almost the same breath she announced that her curtains had not been down for a little matter of eight years. Neither had their rugs, fine Oriental, too—gone to the cleaners. And that's the attitude of a woman who it happens is of the older generation, well born and socially inclined.

All of which proves that it takes all kinds of housekeepers to make a world and what's cleaner and one is the dust of ages to another. Since women are notably extremists, it stands to reason that there are, too, I suppose that the husband of the easy-going woman is less disturbed and so perhaps happier than the husband of the woman who believes that spring is not so much the season of newness as of cleaning house.

Men of all being disturbed and fret over the hoeing-out process, yet some of them are fair-minded enough to admit the necessity of eating chaos in order to establish law and order in the home.

A Room of Refuge

Obviously, it's up to the woman to control her husband's comfort. If she must dig and delve she should use sufficient control to go about it with as little fuss as possible, always seeing to it that there is at least one room in order in which the family may find refuge.

There's no longer any excuse for the general confusion that means eating canned beans off the end of a piled high kitchen table. Women who have houses should learn to manage their property.

"I think if I had a million dollars I'd never give up doing odd painting jobs around the house," a really lovely woman told me when we met.

There is something about getting a paint brush in hand that does go to a woman's head. Every one of us seems to feel inspired when it comes to slinging paint about, and our enthusiasm is materially dampened even when most of the paint gets on us instead of the porch furniture, kitchen table or whatever it is that is our objective.

The countryside is full of women who would much rather do jobs of like character and much prefer working out of doors than in their kitchens. And far more women like the type of job usually associated with men than they do stitching.

A fine seam. Many houses are run on the ill-and-miss plan now that sewing time is here and there are all manner of fascinating things going on out of doors.

Short Cuts

A rubber band wound tight around each end of a dress hanger will prevent a dress, blouse or coat from slipping off.

The use of meat bones not only lends an improved flavor to cooking but supplies valuable mineral salts. Calcium, phosphorus, iron and several other mineral salts cook out of the bones.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Colic—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Right to Go

The liver should pour out two quarts of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just stays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel weak and the world looks pink.

Letatives are only makeshifts. A more powerful movement doesn't get at the cause. It only drives the bile back into the liver. The Little Liver Pills get these two quarts of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up."—Harris, goods, yet amazing in making life flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. CONFESSION LAYS BLAME ON BUTLER with chief responsibility for the kidnapping of Wendell and the three day delay in the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the murder of the Lindbergh baby. Parker, son of the chief detective of Burlington county, still is a fugitive from justice—equally untrusting of the law or the "master minds" with itching trigger fingers.

WEIRD STORY

Who is going to do all this shooting or when it will start seems to be secrets known exclusively to Geoghan. He said Weiss' confession implicated "a South Amboy mob and people high in political circles" in the Wendell affair. The district attorney communicated enough of his information to Weiss' wife to send her hurrying to Ohio to arrange for her husband's surrender before he "came back in a box," as Geoghan put it.

Weiss' confession, as announced by Geoghan, pictured the Wendell kidnapping as a combination of comic strip detective work and medieval brutality. Parker, according to Weiss, conceived the crime and equipped himself with a false moustache and dark glasses. All Weiss' got out of it was $40 expense money, a toy pistol and a promise that after it was all over he would be appointed to the New Jersey State police force.

that 45 allowed each to prosecution and defense. When all the challenges are exhausted the trial must proceed, regardless of whether the 12 women and men are satisfactory to opposing counsel.

HOW CAN IT BE?

It naturally would be taken for granted that there could not possibly be a person in Contra Costa county who had not heard of the celebrated dog track in El Cerrito or who had not read or been told of the sensational raid staged on it by the forces of District Attorney Francis P. Healey the night of December 18th last. It is astounding therefore to sit and listen to talesmen who confess under examination that without their taking notice of it or having their attention called to it.

VENUE CROSS-SECTION

The first taleswoman called yesterday was an excellent cross-section of those who pass through the jury box. This lady had never read or heard of the dog case, had never been at the track and in the course of her social contacts the case, or the track had never been mentioned, or discussed. She had no opinion regarding gambling and neither was in favor nor against it. She was willing to convict if the evidence showed that an offense had been committed and she was equally agreeable to voting for an acquittal if there was any reasonable doubt in connection with the entire affair. She could see her way clear to convicting one, all or none; had never served on a jury before, but was willing to be guided on questions of law by his honor, the judge.

The doctrine of reasonable doubt was explained to her by Judge Johnston, who also gave a learned exposition on the presumption of innocence which safeguards every man and woman who enters the courtroom in the role of a defendant. It is extremely improbable that she absorbed the legal pearls of wisdom as they dropped from the lips of the jurist, but anyway she claimed she did, which is something, and qualified her from a legal standpoint to decide from the law and evidence all the issues, some of them highly technical, which are involved in this trial.

others to whom they are ledged," the article said.

A group of Republican newspaper publishers asked Warren to appoint a committee which selected members of the Warren delegation, the News continued.

DID NOT CONSULT HOOVER
"Mr. Warren did not consult Mr. Hoover, directly or indirectly, in appointing the committee and Mr. Hoover had no voice in its selection."

"The committee in turn did not take up the personnel of the delegation with Mr. Hoover. 'This outline of facts,' which 'anyone who had any connection with the committee of the delegation could readily confirm,' made unnecessary further 'personal emphasis by Mr. Hoover that he does not control and did not inspire the undisciplined ticket.'" charges "pool selling" and the other count charges receiving and hiding moneys staked, pledged, bet and wagered upon a contest of speed and skill—contest between dogs; and the third count is that these people, for gain, hire, reward and gratuitously, registered bets and wagers upon the result of contests of speed and skill between dogs.

EXPOUNDED LAW

There are two particular principles of law here that you will be questioned with reference to: One is the question of reasonable doubt. Now in a criminal case, the law requires that a defendant, before he can be convicted, must be proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty. By "reasonable doubt" is meant a doubt that is based upon some reason; that there is some substance to it. It is not just an imaginary or possible doubt, but something that is based upon some sound reason. Then the other principle is the "presumption of innocence." The presumption of innocence is an active principle of law that militates in favor of a defendant charged with the commission of an offense. Every defendant is presumed to be innocent, until his guilt is established beyond a reasonable doubt and to a moral certainty, and that that must be done by the prosecution. A defendant does not have to prove that he is innocent, but the People must prove that he is guilty. The People of the State of California are represented by the District Attorney.

represented by the District Attorney. Now that presumption of innocence is an active principle of law that you must ever bear in mind, if you are retained as a juror, and you must weigh the evidence in the case with that presumption of innocence ever present in your mind. If you are selected as a juror, it accompanies you into the jury room when you retire to consider your verdict, and those are the two principles in particular here that you may be questioned with reference to.

IN PENNSYLVANIA

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—UP—President Roosevelt's vote in the Pennsylvania Democratic primary climbed toward the 750,000 mark tonight as returns continued to drift in from various sections of the State.

Senator William E. Borah, unopposed formally on the Republican ballot polled 254,614. The fig-who directly accused Townsend leaders of milking thousands of dollars from old men and women throughout the country to support a lobby that cost only $2404.

Moore told House committee members, in a courtroom packed with elderly men and women, that Dr. Townsend had devised a system of collection by "Townsendograms" of donations of nickels, dimes and quarters from millions of Townsend members throughout the country to finance a lobby seeking passage of the McGraw-Hill and age pension bill.

HINT IS GIVEN

It was around the "Townsendgrams" that Cavagan's hints of a Department of Justice inquiry centered. These were messages sent through the mails to club leaders, urging levies of 15 cents a member to finance the lobby.

"The testimony speaks for itself," Cavagan said. "Any steps which the subcommittee takes will be followed on our return to Washington."

He said the testimony taken in the hearing, and other testimony before the Congressional committee at the time the original old age pension bill was before Congress, "indicates there may have been misuse of the mails."

ure, according to Republican leaders, is expected to reach 450,000.

This Is Not The Hearst-Merriam Ticket

VOTE "RIGHT" IS SLOGAN

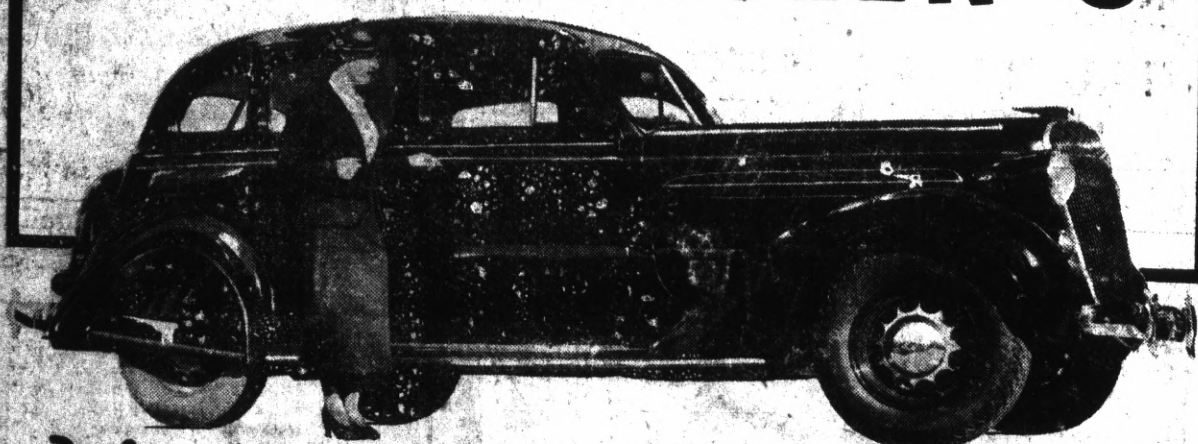

California Republicans are urged by the Warren Un-instructed Delegation campaign committee to vote "RIGHT" for the Warren ticket, which will be the right hand ticket on the May 5th presidential primary ballot. Vote "RIGHT" to prevent William Randolph Hearst, a New York Democrat, and Governor Frank Merriam from seizing control of the Republican party in California; is the slogan.
